According to the Pew Research Center, nearly three-quarters of teens have a smartphone. And, that figure is probably higher for teens living in our community. Digital technology is an excellent tool to make and enhance social relationships, however, it can also expose users to risk.

We are excited to have Clayton Cranford, cyber security expert and Orange County Sheriff Sergeant to help us navigate this very important subject. He created Cyber Safety Cop, an Internet and social media safety program. It teaches parents and students how to avoid the inherent risks of social media and other web based platforms by using safe habits.

Sergeant Cranford will discuss:

- Current impact of bullying in schools;
- Current bullying trends; How to deal with a bully
- Risks associated with popular social media sites
- "Sexting" and online predators
- How to set expectations and consequences
- Online security considerations
- How to monitor online activity
- School discipline and legal issues
